

You can help save a pet's life by registering your cat as a blood donor!

Every day cats just like yours need blood transfusions. For many procedures a transfusion is a clinical necessity, without cat blood donors, veterinary surgeons could not undertake important and often life-saving operations.

You can help, there's always a need for donors like your own cat! With advances in veterinary medicine, it is possible for vets to offer higher and higher standards of care for their patients. In human medicine, supplies of blood and blood products are available through the efforts of the National Blood Transfusion Service.

Vets however must rely on their own resources. That's why our website was created. By becoming an animal blood donor, your cat can help vets help other pets through provision of life-saving blood transfusions.

Our website, which is free to owners and vets aims to bring cat blood donors to the attention of vets, so that lives can be saved. Please consider your cat as a donor and making him or her available when you are contacted.
